

terre differenti - biography

The ensemble was founded in 1998, and the history of the musical collaboration among its members dates back to twenty years ago, when Fabio Armani, the leader, and Alessandro D'Aloia, the drummer, played in their own jazz quartet. Other musicians joined the ensemble after their collaboration to another project called Advena Avis, where medieval music is merged with electronic and ethnic elements. Currently the ensemble is formed by a lot of talented performers from all around the world.

In the year 2000, Terre Differenti has realized its own first CD, simply called: Terre Differenti. This album has been produced by Fabio Armani's Different Lands (a world fusion independent label) and engineered with the help of Giacomo De Caterini at the TANGRAM 7 studio.

Currently the ensemble has completed a second musical project, called Cities of Dreams, produced by the independent label Opensound; this CD aims to move forward the experimentation and fusion among different musical contexts. The compositions and the arrangements are characterised by the usage of a lot of ancient, world and electronic instruments.
